Students at the Heart of the System

JUNE 2011

We also want our universities to look again at how they work with business across their teaching and research activities, to promote better teaching, employer sponsorship, innovation and enterprise.

To support this, the QAA has convened a group to develop guidance for UK universities on enterprise and entrepreneurship.

Speed-networking with Students

Thinking points

- What do the students currently get in terms of enterprise?
- Does the current curricula to include entrepreneurial skills
- Are the students familiar with problem-based learning?
- Are they attracted to enterprise/entrepreneurship education?
- Do they have entrepreneurial ideas already?
- What kind of support do they have for enterprise already?
- What would attract them and their peers more?
- Will and if so how will Idea Labs offer something new?

Ready, Steady, Go...
